

After watching the videos and reading the blogs from the AIMP construction team, imagine you're about to embark on a journey to the most southern point of the world, Antarctica. You're going to be living and working at Rothera Research Station to construct a new wharf and research building for British Antarctic Survey.

What interests do you, or your friends and classmates, have which mean you might enjoy a career as a scientist; an engineer or a construction worker?

What would you enjoy most about working and living in Antarctica? What would you write about in your blog?

You only have 2000g (the same as 2 bags of sugar) of luggage space spare to take to Antarctica, after you've packed your clothes and washbag. Remembering there's limited internet connection, DRAW what you would pack to keep yourself entertained – how much does it weigh? (see other sheet)
